章节摘录

插图：I rushed into an ugly little shop to have the heels (鞋后跟) of my shoes repaired. " Please hurry. " I begged. The shoemaker looked at me over his glasses. " Now , lady , we won ' t be long. I want to do a good job. You see , I have a tradition (传统) to live up to. My father was a shoemaker. He always told me , ' Son , do the best job on every shoe that comes into the shop , and be proud of you fine work. " ' As he handed me the finished shoes , he said , " These will last a long time. ' ' I left the shop with a warm and grateful (感激的) feeling. This was the beginning of our friendship. Since then I went into his shop every few days just to talk with him. One day , I went in disappointed and angry because of a poor job some painters had done for me. " They had no pride in their work , " I said. " They didn ' t want to work. They just wanted to collect their money for doing nothing. What can be done about it ?

" " There ' s only one way. Every man or woman who hasn ' t a prideful tradition must start building one. No matter what sort of work a man does , if he gives it his best each day , he ' s starting a tradition for his children to live up to. And he is making lots of happiness for himself. " I went to Europe for a few months. When I returned. I learned that the old shoemaker suddenly had got sick two weeks ago , right there in his shop. He had died a few days later. I went home with a heavy heart. I would miss him. He had left me something-an important piece of wisdom (名言) I shall always remember : " If you have a prideful tradition , you must carry it on ; if you have not , then start building one now. " 1.
