章节摘录

版权页：插图：There are two factors which determine an individual ' s intelligence . The first is the sort of brain he is born with . Human brains differ considerably , some being more capable than others . But no matter how good a brain he has to begin with , an individual will have a low order of intelligence unless he has opportunities to learn . So the second factor is what happens to the individual the sort of environment in which he is reared(抚养) . If an individual is handicapped environmentally , it is likely that his brain will fail to develop and he will never attain the level of intelligence of which he is capable . The importance of environment in determining an individual ' S intelligence can be demonstrated by the case history of the identical twins , Peter and Mark . Being identical , the twins had identical brains at birth , and their growth processes were the same . When the twins were three months old, their parents died , and they were placed in separate foster(收养)homes . Peter was reared by parents of low intelligence in an isolated community with poor educational opportunities . Mark was reared in the home of well-to-do parents who had been to college .
