章节摘录

EXAMINER : What is the greatest challenge you've met since you entered university ?

YU : Let me see , I'm not so sure. But I want to say that when I wanted to become a postgraduate in the Mechanical Engineering Department, I faced the greatest challenge in my life. I was in the Management Department before and I had never studied any engineering courses. I had to take two major courses from the beginning. At the same time, I had to take three general courses. It was so hard for me. I had to study for hours and hours. But the hardest thing was to overcome the feeling of endless and hopeless work, which would depress me. I was always thinking that I had chosen this way for my future and my boyfriend, and I must persist in finishing it. I never thought of what I would do if I failed. I'm very lucky. Now I can study in a new field. In fact, it is a greater challenge. But I appreciate what I experienced doing at that time.

EXAMINER : Among the people you know, who do you admire most ?

Why ?

HUANG : Well, I admire Zhou Enlai most. There are a lot of stories about the late Premier Zhou, which embody (体现) many of his good characteristics. He was very intelligent, but he knew how to use his intelligence when he met other great men. He liked doing everything for other people without any consideration for himself. He was a great man in the Chinese history. Another good characteristic was his loyalty to his partner. As we all know, his wife was not pretty. But he was very handsome, what's more his wife couldn't give him a child. But he kept his warm love for his wife because he only cared about
