章节摘录

版权页：插图：Bring the printed copies of your payment receipt and itinerary and, as always, your legitimate photo identification and passport and/or visa to the airport. I've been asked for the debit card or credit card with which I made the e-ticket purchase; make sure you have it at check-in, just in case. You may not need to show these to anyone if you check in with a self-service check-in kiosk——many airlines have these at airports. And you may be able to check in online——your e-ticket confirmation will alert you if that's the case and walk you through the online check-in process. What happens if I check in online, but then I can't make my flight?

Passengers who have checked in but cannot make their flight must contact AirTran at least 1 hour prior to departure to retain the value of their ticket. Unless a Business Class fare has been purchased, any changes or cancellations must occur at least 1 hour prior to departure and will result in a $75 fee per passenger, plus any applicable increase in airfare. If you do not rebook immediately, the remaining balance will be placed in a credit file for future use, valid for a period of one year from the original date of booking.
