章节摘录

Hello, everyone. My name is Hermione. I'm very pleased to have this opportunity to stand here and give this speech. Today I'm going to talk about an English word "poor". As you know, this word has two different meanings. One meaning is that people without money, and the other is wretched and pitiful. I would like to tell you a story about this word. A reporter went to interview a very poor family. He sat down and began: "As we know, you're very poor..." "Sorry, Sir !

" the youngest child in the family interrupted him. "But I don't think we're poor ! It is true that we have no money, but we're not poor at all ! We really enjoy our lives !

" In fact, although money is definitely useful, there's something money cannot buy, something precious and invaluable, something really important, such as knowledge, time, love, friendship, mood and happiness. From the story we can learn that people without money can still enjoy their lives just as rich people do. It is happiness that can make our lives rich and full. Thank you for listening to my speech today.
