<<长三角之旅>>

内容概要

Every day at dawn when the sun is rising in the east there appears a huge dragon flying and dancing over the eastern horizon. The head of it is Shanghai, the very metropolitan city featuring a brisk and booming development in economy at the estuary of the Yangtze River, the body the Jiangsu Province with Anhui to follow closely behind and Zhejiang the southern wing of the huge dragon in southeast China. Geographically connected into one the four regions have been closely interwoven together culturally with people in fraternal terms and quite complementary with one another economically ever since ancient times.

作者简介

Prof. Han Rongliang, a native of Wujin, Jiangsu Province, was graduated from the English Faculty of Foreign Languages and Literature Department of Nanjing University in 1964. Starting his career in the Commission for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries of the PRC he later came to work in China International Travel Service. In the meantime, he was engaged to work in European Department, CITS Hong Kong and General Manager's Office. However, while working in charge of the work for the CITS Marketing and Promotion he has done a lot in putting data into English for travel promotion and sales. Therefore, he has oiled up a great deal of useful materials and become well experienced in the job. His major works published bilingual version of English and Chinese include serial guidebooks to Guilin, Xi'an, Shanghai, Beijing, Gansu and Jiangsu. China Travel Manual, Briefings of Major Hotels in China. Temple of Heaven and Five Star Red Flag and some other works as well. Now he has again brought into being a book the Yangtze River Delta Fantasy- guide to epitomized tourist attractions in Shanghai, Jiangsu, Zhejiang & Anhui in order to make some small contributions to the tourism industry in China.
